Police had warned that pregnant girls who take the abortion tablets delivered by a pro-choice organisation's 'abortion robot' might face expenses.

The robotic was a part of the Bus4Choice run by social feminist organisation Rosa NI with the help of web-based abortion tablets supplier Women on Web and Women on Waves.

The group is holding protests throughout Northern Ireland on Thursday.

The girls, who wouldn't disclose their identification or whether or not they have been pregnant, had meant to problem the regulation by taking the tablets outdoors the courthouse.

The tablets have been be delivered by a distant management robotic.

A health care provider was desiring to counsel girls remotely, because the robots have been operated from the Netherlands in a bid to keep away from breaking the regulation.

On Wednesday PSNI detective chief superintendent Tim Mairs mentioned it might examine any suspected felony offences.

“ Organisers of pro-Choice rally in Belfast have handed over abortion tablets & mini-robot to police.

Eleanor Crossey Malone, from socialist feminist motion Rosa, was a kind of who took the capsule in entrance of tv cameras.

She mentioned: “I've taken this in defiance of the extraordinarily outdated, medieval, anti-choice legal guidelines that exist in Northern Ireland.

“We usually are not prepared within the wake of the repeal referendum to be left behind any longer.

“Northern Ireland after repeal can be considered one of solely two jurisdictions remaining in Europe to criminalise girls successfully for having abortions.

“We usually are not prepared to simply accept it any extra.”
