

Home Video Politics U.S. Opinion Business Entertainment Tech Science Health Travel Lifestyle World On AirHealth Home Men's Health Women's Health Children's Health Alternative Medicine Diabetes Heart Health Nutrition & Fitness

PREGNANCY

Strict law pushes Polish women to have abortions abroad

Published November 03, 2016

Associated Press

(iStock)

PRENZLAU, Germany – While the streets of Warsaw have been engulfed by vehement protests over the government's plan to further restrict abortion, individual Polish women are struggling daily to find ways of ending their unwanted pregnancies.

Monika, 19, had recently split up with her boyfriend when she realized with horror that she was pregnant. With no partner, no money and years of education ahead, she felt an abortion was her only option. But abortion in Poland is illegal in most cases and even when she tracked down a doctor rumored to bend the rules, he refused.

So Monika did what many Polish women before her have done - packed a bag, crossed the border into Germany and had an abortion in a place where it is safe and legal. Many have also gone to the Czech Republic, Slovakia or the Netherlands.

"I feel good now," she told The Associated Press from her hospital bed after ending her 7-week pregnancy in Prenzlau, Germany. "I would have had no one to leave the baby with and would not have coped financially. I was not ready to face this."

Poland, like the United States, is a society deeply divided over abortion. The Central European nation has one of the most restrictive laws in Europe and a government loyal to the Catholic church that wants to further restrict abortions. But a recent attempt to impose a total ban on abortion outraged many Polish women who held street protests that forced lawmakers to abandon that idea.

Now the ruling party is pushing for a near-total ban - a move that seems to be creating new support for abortion rights.

Another Polish woman having an abortion in Prenzlau, 22-year-old Ewa, said the recent protests made her aware that abortion was possible abroad.

"Other women who wrote on the internet about their experience helped me take the decision," she said. "I thought it would be worse, but it's OK now. I feel fine."

Both women refused to give their full names or hometowns, afraid of being identified and condemned back home in the heavily Catholic nation.

More on this...

In Poland, abortion is only allowed through the 12th week in cases of rape or incest, if the woman's life or health is in danger or if the fetus is irreparably damaged. Poland had 1,040 legal abortions last year, but experts say the true number of abortions is at about 150,000 per year in the nation of 38 million. Women import banned abortion pills from elsewhere, travel abroad for the procedure or resort to secret, unsafe abortions by non-medical people looking to earn money.

Abortion by prescription now rivals surgery for US women

Woman receives Poland's 2nd full face transplant

Abortion legal in Thai birth defect cases linked to Zika, officials say

Reproductive rights activists are denouncing the Polish government's plans for an even more restrictive abortion law. The proposed change would also ban abortions in cases of fetuses with genetic defects like Down syndrome or even if they have no chances of survival upon birth. This way the born child can be "baptized, buried (and) have a name," ruling party leader Jaroslaw Kaczynski said.

In fact, even abortions allowed by law are often denied to women due to a large number of doctors who declare themselves "conscientious objectors."

"The current law does not work in practice," said Krystyna Kacpura, the executive director of the Federation for Women and Family Planning. "Women are clever and always find a way to avoid government obstacles. We are in the center of Europe; it's easy to go by train, plane, bus and car to another country."

Karina Walinowicz, a lawyer with Ordo Iuris, a Catholic group that has pushed unsuccessfully for a total abortion ban, said the law plays an important role in teaching people right from wrong.

"Abortion is homicide performed on a person at a pre-natal stage when the person is weakest, incapable of defense," Walinowicz said.

A leading polling institute in Warsaw, CBOS, estimates that at least one in four Polish women have probably had an abortion, but very few will admit to it. Several young men speaking Polish were in the waiting room at Prenzlau hospital, but denied their partners were there for abortions.

Monika was given an appointment within a week of calling Dr. Janusz Rudzinski, a Pole who lives in Germany and heads the hospital's Department of Gynecological Oncology, Special Operating Gynecology and Aesthetic Surgery.

During two hours that he spent with AP reporters, Rudzinski answered at least eight calls in Polish. Each time he assured the caller that abortion is legal in Germany through the 12th week. He said the hospital performs about 20 abortions a week on Polish women.

"This is not the most pleasant procedure, but the thing is, that if you have demand for them for some reason or other, then someone must perform them," Rudzinski said, sitting by an ultrasound machine.

In one case, a woman called from Poland's southeastern region of Rzeszow, saying she had tried an abortion on herself using a wire and had a high fever and acute abdominal pain. Rudzinski suspected she was developing life-threatening sepsis and told her to go immediately to a hospital.

Rudzinski also said a network called "the abortion underground" has developed in Poland, so the number of foreign abortions is falling.

"Three out of four (illegal) abortions are now done in Poland, but not by doctors. Tailors, shoemakers, artisans are performing them to make money," he said.

Since abortion pills are banned in Poland, Rudzinski said some Polish women take pills for stomach ulcers, which can provoke an abortion but can also damage the fetus' nervous system if the pregnancy continues. Those pills can also be fake.

"My patients sometimes tell me they have taken 50 pills, which is an almost lethal dose, but they are alive and fine. And the pregnancies are continuing," Rudzinski said.

Those who can afford it seek real abortion pills from the Dutch organization Women on Web through the Internet. The pills can be confiscated by customs authorities.

"Nobody draws pleasure from having an abortion. There are always some reasons for it, bigger or smaller," Rudzinski said.

You Might Also Like

More from Fox News

Mom held hostage sends daughter to

Topless pics at night partying:

'Holy grail' of muscle cars found in old

Joanna Krupa shows off figure

Maak kennis met de City Surfers van München
Paid for by Canon

Bovarro Watch - Apollo 11 Moon Mission 1969
Paid for by Boverro Watches on Kickstarter

Ralph Nader: Clinton Foundation's Actions Should Result in Indictment
Fox Business Politics

SELF Tonda Rousey Almost done

The 4 Things an Expense Planning Template Can Do for Your Business
Paid for by IBM Content

Speed Up Your Planning Cycle With This Margin Planning Template
Paid for by IBM Content

The Most Popular Albums of the Year You Were Born
Paid for by PrettyFamous

USA: New tai health Chevy

Sponsored Stories

- Petronas' oil rig-making unit stays in the red for fourth straight... (Nikkei Asian Review)
- They're Not All Democrats: 25 Republican Celebrities (PrettyFamous | By Graphiq)
- Say Goodbye to Your Spreadsheet - It's the Age of the Accounting App (GetApp.com)
- 8 Things Smoking Weed Does to Your Body (Men's Fitness)
- These Cruises Are Tailor-Made for Solo Travelers (Cruise Critic)
- 25 Names Nobody Wants to Name Their Child Anymore (MooseRoots | By Graphiq)

- Watch Jean-Claude Van Damme's Daughter Take Ice Bucket Challenge... (Muscle & Fitness)
- Facial Hair Women Find Most Attractive on Men (Men's Fitness)
- Take a Virtual Tour of the Most Expensive Apartment in NYC (Mansion Global)
- Ellen DeGeneres Sells Hollywood Hills House (Again) for $9.9 Million (Mansion Global)
- Listing of the Day: A Parisian Penthouse with a Private Pool (Mansion Global)
- Former GOP Presidential Hopeful Ben Carson Buys $47 Million Florida... (Mansion Global)

Sponsored Stories

The Easiest Way to Find Your Most Profitable Sales Channels
IBM Content

Which Artist Shares Your Birth Year?
Bands & Music Discography, Affiliations, Anal

Ad Content by

Watch Now...

Guns N' Votes

Judge Jeanine: Jim, buck up and make a deal with Huma

Wallace: Substantial reason for Comey to reopen Clinton case

Sign in

5 people listening

More from Fox News

Mom held hostage sends daughter to

Topless pics at night partying:

'Holy grail' of muscle cars found in old

Joanna Krupa shows off figu

+ Follow

Share

Post comment as...

Newest Oldest Hot Threads

Manny7

2 days ago

Abortion is murder . It is a transgression of one of the 7 laws of Noah. It is unfortunate that the baby would interfere with her studies!. G-d's laws comes first.

1 Like Reply

endangeredRIGHTS

2 days ago

Faith argument aside for a moment:

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY (women and men!) makes abortion a non-issue, and avoids medical costs and risks

55m abortions and counting in the US since Roe v Wade.

14m are African American mothers

More unborn African Americans are aborted than born.

Partial birth abortion is not less risky to the mother, when the baby is forced to be partially delivered breach, followed by inserting an instrument in the skull before exiting the birth canal. Women are misled by the left and the argument that this is a good thing. My wife gave birth to both of our sons at 8 months after troubled pregnancies...fully viable HUMAN BABIES, not blobs of genetic material.

Something to think about when the Democrats claim to be the better party for minorities and women, when they are pushing for unrestricted access to abortions.

PLEASE exercise your RIGHT TO CHOOSE before you become pregnant, and take away this issue from the political elitists who think they can run your life better than you. You are affirming their belief they can think better than you if you don't.

1 Like Reply

EducatingTheClueless

2 days ago

Did she pay for it or did the German Taxpayers pay for it?

1 Like Reply

groovycowman

2 days ago

No bias in that headline, is there?

1 Like Reply

Powered by Livefyre

FROM OUR PARTNERS

8 Things Weed Does to Your Body Mensfitness.com

Signs The Dying Process Has Begun Verywell.com

8 Things That Hurt Worse Than Childbirth Verywell.com

6 Moves That Are More Effective Than Bicep Curls Mensjournal.com

Fans mad Beyonce, Dixie Chicks

Ronda Rousey almost done

Jason Fowler trades sex, drugs and rock

AUSA: New ta stealth Chevy

Top Health Centers

- Back Pain, Depression, Pain Management, Beauty & Skin, Digestive Health, Pregnancy, Cancer, Heart Dise:, Sexual Hea, Cold and FI, Nutrition

Sponsored Stories

The Easiest Way to Find Your Most Profitable Sales Channels IBM Content

Which Artist Shares Your B Year? Bands & Music Discography, Affiliations, Anal,

More from Fox News

Mom held hostage sends daughter to

Topless pics at night partying:

'Holy grail' of muscle cars found in old

Joanna Krupa shows off figu

Top 10 Signs That You're Headed for a Stroke
Lifescript.com

5 Strange Things We All Do At Night
Lifescript.com

10 Things to Stop Doing if You Want to Live a Long Life
Verywell.com

10 Foods To Eat If You Want a Strong Stomach
Lifescript.com

This Common Kitchen Item Is Worse for You Than Sugar
Mydomaine.com

7 Caffeine Facts You Might Find Surprising
Mensjournal.com

Fans Mad About Beyoncé, Dixie Chicks

Ronda Rousey almost done

Jason Fowler trades sex, drugs and rock

AUSA: New ta stealth Chevy

Top Health Centers

- Back Pain
- Depression
- Pain Management
- Beauty & Skin
- Cancer
- Heart Disease
- Sexual Health
- Cold and Flu

Site Index

This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten, or redistributed. ©2016 FOX News Network, LLC. All rights reserved. All market data delayed 20 minutes. New Privacy - New Terms of Use (What's New) - FAQ

More from Fox News

Mom held hostage sends daughter to

Topless pics at night partying:

'Holy grail' of muscle cars found in old

Joanna Krupa shows off figure